

With less than one month until the 5th annual Nebraska Wind Conference, over 200 people have already registered, well ahead of last year's pace.

The conference will be held Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 22–23, in Lincoln at the Cornhusker Hotel.

“United and Strategic in Advancing the Wind Industry of Nebraska” is this year's conference theme.

The conference has been moved from Kearney to Lincoln this year, and limited to 325 participants, about half the size available the last two years.

“Since registration is on a first come first served basis, we strongly urge people to take advantage of the advance registration to make certain there is room for them,” said Wind Conference Co-Chair John Hansen.

Greeley County landowner Ellen Gydesen who attended last year's conference, is returning for this year's event.

Professional Development Hours Certificates will be offered to those who attend.

For more information on the conference including a current list of registrants, programs, go to www.Nebraskawindconference.com. Registration is $100 and is limited to the first 325 attendees.

For hotel reservations contact the Cornhusker Hotel at (402) 474-7474 or online at <http://thecornhuskerhotel.com>. Be sure to mention being with the Nebraska Wind Conference to get the group room rate of $104 plus tax per night.
