

Just over a quarter inch of rain late Saturday was enough to give everything it touched a thick layer of ice by Sunday morning. Temperatures dipped to 21 during the night and the high Sunday was 24. After a warming trend mid-week, snow is in the forecast for the end of the week. (Photo by Jan Rahn)