

Although outdoor plants survived the dip in temperature Monday night, they wouldn't be so lucky Tuesday night when a low of 29 was predicted around the area with northwest wind gusts as high as 20 mph. That should take care of the splashes of color on display. Daytime high by Friday is forecast at 69, and by Monday in the low 70s, with nighttime lows around 42. Too bad the beauty will have already been erased. *(Photos by Jan Rahn)
