

No, it's not blooms—but it was just as pretty. Perkins County residents awoke Tuesday to a winter wonderland. Everything had a thick coat of frost, creating a beautiful landscape. Tuesday's forecast was sunny with a high of 49, so the crystals started falling from trees, bushes, fence rows and clotheslines soon after daylight. (Photo by Jan Rahn)