

A winter storm moved through the area Saturday night and into the day on Sunday dumping a few inches of snow that didn't lay very nicely due to the high winds accompanying it. This unique drift appeared in the yard of Jason and Adair Reese a half mile east of Grant. The bare ground indicates the minimal snowfall. Temperatures remained in the low 30s Monday and Tuesday but are expected to rise again by the weekend. (Photo by Jan Rahn)